GRAND THEATRE

Admirers of that steel-nerved, dare-devil Western star, Roy Stewart, will be pleased to learn that he is to appear at the Grand Theatre tomorrow in the Triangle feature, "The Silent Rider." Stewart was on a vacation for some little time and has come back into the pictures in magnificent fettle.

There is plenty of exciting action, red-blooded gun play, and dramatic thrill in "The Silent Rider," and Stewart lives up to his reputation as "The Western Whirlwind." The Grand will also show a comedy tomorrow.

Don't forget the big double bill at the Grand Theatre tonight.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

Rev. Dr McKim, of Washington, Preaches on Life of Gen. Lee at Christ Church—Silver Plate Dedicated—Veterans Attend.

Yesterday, Sunday, the 19th of January, being the 112th anniversary of the birth of General Robert E. Lee was observed in this city, by a memorial service, at eleven o'clock in the morning, in Old Christ Church, where he was confirmed and of which he was for a number of years a consistent and devoted communicant. The preacher was the Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim, rector of Epiphany Church, Washington, D. C., a former rector of Christ Church and the service was conducted by the Rev. William J. Morton, D. D., the present rector, assisted by Rev. Berryman Green, D. D., Dean of the Episcopal Theological Seminary, near this city, the immediate predecessor of Dr. Morton as rector, and the Rev. Samul A. Wallis, D. D., Professor at the Seminary, who was in charge of Christ Church in the interim between the death of Dr. Suter and the coming of Dr. Green as rector of the church. The lessons of Holy Scripture read in the service, were especially chosen for the day, the first lesson being the first chapter of the book of Joshua and the second the eleventh chapter of the epistle to the Hebrews, first to the twenty-eighth verse. Both selections were singularly appropriate to the occasion. After the service of morning prayer was ended General Lee's favorite hymn, "How firm a foundation ye saints of the Lord" was sung by the choir and congregation. Dr. Morton then in a brief but felicitous address announced to the congregation that an interesting feature of the commemoration service of the day was the placing of a silver plate on the chancel rail at the spot where General Lee knelt when he was confirmed, with two of his daughters, also kneeling, one on each side of him, on Friday, the 27th day of July, 1853, by the Rt. Rev. John Johns, D. D., assistant bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Virginia, at that time. This is inscribed on the plate:

After the services Bishop Johns remarked to Colonel Lee if you make as good a soldier of the cross as you have of your country the church will be as proud of you as your country is.

The fact of General (then Colone.) Lee's confirmation was remembered by General Lee's eldest daughter the late Miss Mary Custis Lee, and by Miss Sallie Stuart, the latter of whom was confirmed at the same time. Dr. Morton also paid an eloquent tribute to Miss Stuart whose work as a leader in the Woman's Auxiliary was well known in the diocese of Virginia and throughout the Episcopal Church in this country as well as in England. The confirmation hymn of the Episcopal Church in the diocese of Virginia was next sung. Dr. McKim then ascended the pulpit, and announced as his text the 24th and 25th verses of the eleventh chapter of Hebrews: "By faith Moses when he was come to years refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season.

The doctor referred to the years that he followed Lee as one of the Confederate army and how the noble chieftain had won his love and devotion as well as that of his soldiers. He paid an eloquent tribute to Lee's Christian character, his great act of self reunciation when he refused the tender of the leadership of the Federal Army, because he must be true to his State, his answering faith in God, his heroic devotion to duty, his spirit of reconciliation and his noble sense of true justice to his own army his suffering people, and even to the whole country in accepting the issues of the war by surrendering at the last unreservedly to the overwhelming power of the United States. In conclusion Dr. McKim said he had often asked himself the question: Why was the South permitted to suffer defeat in the Providence of God. He felt there must be some good reasons for this. The answer had come in the gigantic struggle of the late war against the fell power of Kaiserism. The Anglo Saxon race had a great mission and it must be one; there must to accomplish this be one United States, to stand with England, France and Italy, for the liberty and freedom of the world.

Dr. McKim was listened to with undivided attention by the great congregation assembled in the old church filled as it was both on the main floor and in the galleries. A large number of visitors were present. The Lee Camp Confederate Veterans, of Alexandria, attended the service in a body. The choir of Christ Church with the organist, Mrs. C. G. Lennon, rendered the musical part of the service reverently and admirably, were especially commended by Dr. McKim.

Tonight the local boys will meet the strong quint from the Charlotte Hall Military Academy. A very good game is expected as both teams are in excellent condition.

The ratification of the national prohibition amendment is the culmination of a quarter century fight by the Anti Saloon League. But our work is only begun."

ROBS CHOIR SINGERS

While Members of Christ P E Church Were at Services Yesterday Morning a Sneak Thief Got Busy And Make a Clean up

While the members of the choir of Christ P. E. Church were engaged in singing in that edifice yesterday morning a sneak theif entered the parish hall of that church, directly across from the church and rifled the pockets of the overcoats of a number of its members and stole several articles.

Victims of the theif are as follows: Pocketbook belonging to Julian T. Burke containing between $4 and $5; camera belonging to William Green, of Washington; meerschaum pipe belonging to Colin White, director of choir; overcoat belonging to Clarence Robinson and hat belonging to Police Sergeant William J. Wilkinson.

The thief also turned the pockets of the coat of Mrs. Charles T. Lindsey inside out but failed to get anything.

No clew has yet been attained as to the identity of the thief.

KAISER BECOMES CIGARETTE "FIEND"

Amerongen, Holland, Jan. 20—William Hohenzollern's illness, which manifests itself principally in the form of chills, is being aggravated by his constant worriment, the effects of which are plainly visible in his features and his general physical condition.

The former German Emperor looks to be perhaps fifteen years older than when he crossed the frontier of Holland. Although he is only about to complete his sixtieth year, his birthday coming at the end of the present month, his appearance suggests a man of seventy. He wears a short ragged beard and a drooping mustache, and his hitherto firm flesh is now sagging.

The ex-Emperor, who had always been accustomed to smoke a considerable number of cigarettes daily, has now becme a greater consumer of tobacco than ever. As soon as one cigarette is finished he starts another, his smoking continuing virtually from the moment he rises until he retires.

Herr Hohenzollern's meals with his wife are of the simplest possible sort. Water is the only beverage taken at table. But in the forenoon the exruler drinks a small glass of light red wine and in the evenings a half glass before going to bed.

THE COAL SITUATION

Zone and Price Regulations Suspended February 1.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 20.—Dr. Garfield has announced that effective February 1st, all zone and price regulations on coke and coal except Pennsylvania anthracite will be suspended. This refers to mine prices, wholesalers' margins, purchasing agents' commission, and retail margins and prices.

It was announced January 10 that all regulations as to shipment and use of Pennsylvania anthracite egg, pea, and buckwheat sizes have been withdrawn which means that free movement of these sizes into states heretofore embargoed, is now permissable. For the present, the restriction as to the shipments and uses of Pennsylvania anthracite stove and nut coal are still in effect, but the indications are that these two sizes of Pennsylvania anthracite will in the near future become more plentiful.

"Please understand that while I have no longer jurisdiction over movements of coal and prices other than Pennsylvania Anthracite Stove and nut sizes, if any consumers desire assistance from this office, it will be very gladly given and consumers can feel at liberty at all times to call on me for emergency cases." Says John C. Dillon, assistant federal fuel administrator for Virginia.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear daughter, Louise Alma Mason, who parted from this life three months ago today, October, 18, 1918.

I watched you day and night,
I held your hand in mine,
Until at last, with broken heart,
I saw you breathe your last.
My dear Louise now is sleeping,
No care is on her brow,
Oh blame me not for weeping,
For I have no Louise now.
Affliction sore long time she bore,
Physicians were in vain,
Until God in mercy took her home,
And eased her of her pain.
By her devoted mother,
Mrs. Annie Mason.

In loving remembrance of my dear, dear wife Cornelia A. Lee who fell asleep in Jesus 9 years ago today January 20, 1910.

HIS "DOCTOR" A THIEF

Bookbinder Reports Robbery of Nearly $400 by Visitor Who Came to Cure Him.

Isaac Sopher, a bookbinder, 820 East Fayette street, Baltimore, reported a somewhat mysterious robbery to the police yesterday. According to his report, the visit of a "medicine man" cost Sopher nearly $400, including a $50 Liberty bond.

Sopher, according to Detective Day, was in his shop yesterday morning when a visitor called. Sopher, who is 60 years old, is said to suffer with asthma. The visitor is alleged to have told Sopher that he was able to relieve the disease through psychic power. The aged man became interested and within a few minutes the visitor said to the bookbinder: "Now I must have a flat key so that I can place it about your neck. I must have it immediately so that the charm is not broken."

Sopher said that the only flat key he had was in his safe. The bookbinder opened the safe, took the key from the cashbox and handed it over. Sopher was placed in a position where he could not see the safe. A number of hurried movements were made by the visitor and Sopher was instructed to wait until the visitor returned from a drug store. Sopher waited for some time, and when his visitor did not return he became suspicious. He went to his safe and found that the cashbox was rifled.

CONFERENCE PUBLICITY

There does not seem to be any urgent call for the American people to become wildly agitated over the reports which come from Paris that the sessions of the peace conference are not to be open to all the correspondents of the newspapers gathered there to watch its deliberaions. When it is remembered that there are over 100 such scribes for the United States alone, and that this number is probably multiplied several times in the case of the European papers, it can be seen how impractical is the idea that the peace delegates should conduct their proceedings in the dazzling light of such publicity.

As the Philadelphia Record observes, "when President Wilson made his plea for open diplomacy he did not mean, of course, that everything should be done in full view of the crowd. That is not the practice of our own Senate in its discussions in executive session, and in theory the ordinary meeting of committees of Congress are not open to the public. There are times when all deliberative bodies feel the necessity of secrecy in their debates on questions requiring delicate handling."

"Full publicity should be given to all decisions reached by the Paris conference, and it is to be hoped that the American and British delegates will stand pat on the position they have taken in opposition to the proposition to draw a veil over all the proceedings of the meeting. By the exercise of a little tact and good sense reasonable publicity can be secured and harmony between the Allies be maintained without resorting to such emasculation of the news as has been proposed by France, Italy and Japan.

"The situation only calls for a little horse sense on the part of all concerned. Obviously the correspondents cannot attend the sessions of the conference en masse. There is no reason, however, why adequate reports should not be prepared that would satisfy the legitimate public curiosity to know what this historic gathering is doing."

HOLD KAISER RESPONSIBLE

Some points in the report to which Premier Clemenceau referred last week when he said he had consulted two eminent jurists on the penal responsibility of the former German Emperor were made public yesterday. The report was drawn up by Ferdinand Larnaude, dean of the Paris law faculty, and Dr. A. G. De-Lapradelle, professor of rights of nations in the same faculty.

The object of the inquiry was to investigate from a purely judicial point of view whether crimes committed by the German Government and army involved the penal responsibility of the former German Emperor, what tribunal should judge him and whether his extradition could be demanded.

The authors of the report commence by establishing that no penalty is possible against a nation any more than against a company, but that the manager or director of a company can be punished.

"The Emperor in the first place," says the report, "as King of Prussia is president of the confederation by virtue of a special law in which human will does not enter. The German sovereign depends only on God and the sword. With such a conception of power it would be unjuridicial to the highest degree to allow the Emperor to escape responsibility for his actions; his responsibility for the war, under the constiuttion, decision belonged to him alone; his responsibility for violation of Belgian neutrality, which was willed by him; his responsibility for acts of terrorism by his troops, which he willed and ordered."

The report quotes a letter from the former Emperor to the Emperor of Austria in the early days of the war, in which the German Emperor wrote:

My soul is torn asunder, but everything must be put to fire and blood. The throats of men and women, children and the aged, must be cut, and not a tree nor a house left standing.

With such methods of terror, which alone can strike so degenerate people as the French, the war will finish before two months, while if I use humanitarian methods it may prolong for years. Despite all my repugnance, I have had to choose the first system.

"Modern law," the report continues, "does not recognize irresponsible authorities, even at the summit of hierarchy. It brings a State down from its pedestal and makes it submit to the rule of the judge.

"There can, therefore, be no question of saving from the judge a man who is at the summit of hierarchy, either by the application of internal law or of international law."

GERMANY'S WARSHIPS

To sink the surrendered German warships would be an act of unpardonable folly, akin to the suggestion once made that the South should burn several million bales of cotton in order to advance the price of the remainder says the Manufacturers' Record.

"These German ships represent tens of millions of dollars' worth of steel, and to waste so vast an amount by sending it to the bottom of the seas would be almost criminal. If no other use can be made of these ships and it is desired to blot them out of existence, then scrap them and give to Belgium and France the old materials to be remelted and reshaped for the purpose of being used in helping to rebuild those countries.

"These ships turned into agricultural implements, fashioned into tools for rebuilding work, or into construction materials would forever be a reminder that all Germany's boasted, braggard naval power has been made to help rebuild the countries destroyed by Germany's accursed ambition to conquer and rule the world."

SOCIALIST MAYOR SILENCED

Hoan, of Milwaukee, Howled Down at Soldiers' Reception.

Milwaukee, Jan. 20.—When Mayor Daniel W. Hoan attempted to speak Saturday night at a reception given by the city to returning soldiers, he was greeted with prolonged jeering, at the conclusion of which he yielded to Governor E. L. Philipp, of Wisconsin, who addressed the gathering.

Feeling against the Mayor has become intensified since last Sunday night when he presided at a meeting which indorsed Victor L. Berger and his co-defendants, recently found guilty in a Federal Court of violating the Espionage act. Army officers here have been particularly vehement against the Mayor, and yesterday a committee of officers waited upon him and requested him not to preside at the reception. He told the committee he expected to be present.

The Mayor appeared at the auditorium where the reception was held half an hour before the soldier and sailor guests arrived, marching in military formation. Mingled cheers and hisses greeted his first appearance. After the soldiers had marched around the hall they stood at attention and the Mayor arose to make his address. He was unable to speak for several minutes, because of prolonged jeering, after which, without saying a word, he motioned to Governor Philipp to take the floor.

Mayor Hoan issued a statement in which he denied approving a doctrine of violence, one of the things said to have been indorsed at the Socialist meeting last Sunday and to which the army officers took exception.

NEGRO SMASHES WINDOWS

Disrobes and Marches up Street, Putting Fist Through Panes

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—After taking off all his clothing and draping it on the statue of Benajmin Frarklin on the Post Office Plaza at Ninth and Chestnut streets yesterday morning Julius E. Reddick, a negro, 21 years old, of Richmond, Va., marched up Chestnut street stark naked, to the great astonishmenlt of other pedestrians. In the block between Tenth and Eleventh streets the man suddenly began to rave. Shouting at the top of his voice he rushed at the store windows and thrust his fist through five of them. By this time, a crowd, attracted by the fall of glass arrived on the scene and two sailors seized the naked man, preventing him from continuing his vandalism. A policeman was called and the patrol wagon summoned. A blanket was wrapped around Reddick, and he was taken to City Hall, where his wounds were dressed. Then he was examined by police surgeons and pronounced insane. He was taken to the Philadelphia Hospital

Reddick arrived in this city a few weeks ago from Richmond. He has been living in a lodging house on Lombard street west of Eleventh. Other occupants of the house said he was deeply religious.

SPILLS FORTUNE ON ROAD

Trunk Containing $12,000 in Jewels Dropped From Automobile

Atlantic City, Jan. 20.—Somewhere between New York and Atlantic City Friday afternoon a trunk containing diamonds and other jewels valued at $12,000 was shaken loose from the rear of an automobile driven by F. R. Mayer, a wealthy New Yorker, on his way to the shore, and the loss was not discovered until he drove up to a beachfront hotel. Then ensued an all night search of the highway. Chartering a taxicab he went slowly over the ground, while the headlights of the machine played on either side of the road. Hope of recovering the trunk was revived at Freehold when the strap by which it was fastened was discovered. Searches with fine tooth comb was made, but not a trace of the missing trunk was discovered.

Arriving here Mr. Mayer reported his loss to the police, and the authorities along the route to the shore were soon engaged in prosecuting the search.

TURK IS DEAD, NOT ILL

Morgenthau Calls for Funeral of Europe's Celebrated Sick Man.

New York, Jan. 20.—Asserting that almost every country in the world has "foolishly or selfishly helped to keep the Turk alive as a nation," Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, declared in an address here yesterday that the mistake of the past "in permitting Turkey to continue because of the balance of power," must not be made at the peace conference.

"The Dardanelles must remain open and unfortified," he said. "They are the great waterway between Asia and Africa, and are as vital to commerce as the mouth of the Mississippi.

"Turkish Mohammedan rule over Christian people must cease. These old nations, now under Turkish misrule, must have their rights restored.

"No district of the ize of Turkey can remain ungoverned in the midst of civilized nations. Government for this is one of the tasks of the League of Nations.

"Now that almost every nation, in turn, has foolishly or selfishly helped to keep the Turk alive as a nation, don't let the United States, through mistaken sentimentality or fear of a little additional argument, fall into the same error.

"Turkey is not reformable. Her vitality is exhausted. She is not sick; she has just disintegrated and passed away. The skeleton may still make some motions, but it is only the wind that is moving the limbs. There is no heart left through which the red blood of humanity can flow."

FAMILIES KICKED OUT

35 Evicted in New York Following Strike for Hot Water

New York, Jan. 20.—Thirty-five families, occupants of a large apartment house on the upper East Side, who refused to pay rent until they were supplied with hot water for at least six hours a day," were legally evicted.

Armed with dispossess notices, a city marshal appeared with a brigade of furniture movers, and by nightfall had dumped the belongings of four families on the sidewalk.

The street resembled a scene in France when the German invaders were advancing. Mattresses were spread on the sidewalks, bonfires lighted and sentries posted to guard the furniture. In the windows of the deserted apartment house hung notices reading "Tenants on strike for hot water."

The enforced exodus was the culmination of a long standing dispute between tenants and landlords. Claiming that when rents were raised their water supply had become cold, the tenants formed an association and raised a "defense fund" of $1000 The landlords replied by obtaining dispossess notices, and announced that other landlords in the district had been called upon to refuse the tenants quarters.

DEFIES GOD TO KILL HIM

Russian Terrorist, Shrieking Sacrilege From Pulpit, After Murdering Priest, Slain by Worshipper

London, Jan. 20.—A story of a terrorist challenge to God and its tragic result comes from an authoritative Russian source. A small party of terrorist broke into a church and in the vestry murdered the priest. People were in pews, while tragedy was enacted. Another priest was praying at the altar. One of the murderers stalked down to the pulpit, climbed into it, a hitherto unheard of liberty—and waving his arms, shouted:

"You see how silly all this religion is. There is no God. I tell you there never has been a God. I have just killed a priest. In the silly old days you would have told me God would kill men because I killed a priest. Well here you see me in the pulpit. I have killed a priest and God doesn't lift a finger to kill me."

A pistol shot rang out and the terrorist fell dead in the pulpit. A man in the congregation, smoking pistol in hand, stood calmly.

"He said God would not kill him. I did. I was God's instrument."

STEAL CHILDREN FROM HOME

Party of Five Invade Home of Pittsburgh Steel Man and Carry off Two Little Ones

Pittsburgh, Jan. 20.—With faces masked and wearing heavy overcoats and slouched hats, four men, accompanied by a woman, stepped from an automobile in front of the home of James Mann, in Homeville near here, at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, and, entering the house, seized two of the youngest of Mann's four children, carried them screaming to the car and drove off madly in the direction of Pittsburgh. The boldness of the kidnaping stunned the older children to such an extent that it was some time before they recovered themselves and summoned help. The entire police force of Pittsburgh is searching for the kidnapers.

The kidnaping, the police say, is a sequel to domestic troubles in the Mann home. Mann, 45 years old, holds an important position with the Homestead Steel Works. He has been separated from his wife, the police say, since last July. Since the alleged estrangement the husband has been living with his four children, Clara, aged 13, and Minnie, aged 10, daughters by his first marriage, and Louise, aged 5, and George, aged 3, children by the second marriage.

The four men and the woman, none of whom was identfied, walked immediately into the house. The men, directed by the woman, grasped Louis and George Mann and started across toward the front door. The other two children, seeing their brother and sister being torn away, attacked the captors with fury. They were shaken off by captors, but pursued them to the street. During the tussle with the children one of the kidnapers dashed away, notified the neighbors, who called Mann at the Homestead Steel Works. The police were then called.

WANT GERMANY PUNISHED

It is beleved that in the punishment meted out to Germany there should be some distinction. Never for a moment will it be considered that the common people of that great country are responsible for what has happened. While we denounce the Hapsburgs and Hohenzollerns, and see the rotterness of the whole Teutonic nation, yet a feeling of symathy embraces us when we think of the under dog in this momentous crisis. But we must think of our boys who have braved the storm, some who will return and others who will never see these shores again.

"The letter of the Prince of Monaco to the head of the discredited and disgraced House of Hohenzollern and the reply of Mr. Hoover to the whine of the beaten and baffled German seem to me to be models of polite imprecation. Not that either objective has any claim upon courtesy, nor that courtesy was in the minds of the writers—indeed, it is but to paraphrase a pious saying of ours—'to Hell with the Hohenzollerns!" But there is in both a verbal sufficiency and a timeliness that will gratify the world's sense of justice. Could cheek go farther, or show itself more insensible to shame, than is indicated by the alms-begging of a gang of marauders who, when they were possessed of power, knew no mercy—not even to Edith Cavell—and who now, brought to book, have not the wit to see that their acts are unforgivable, nor the manhood to take their medicine like men instead of crying like babies? Cowardice—brutality—thy name is Teuton! Therefore let the Teuton nation be blotted out of exisence forever! The four kingdoms—Prusia, Wurttemberg—Saxony—Bavaria—must be relegated to their original sovereignties, having been assessed for indemnities covering the losses of Belgium and the cost of the war to the rest of us. The ruling caste in each country should be put to work, including the sons of the Kaiser. To the Kaiser, stripped of all, we may say 'Get thee gone, thou son of Belial! May you woods deny thee shelter, earth a home, the grave a resting place! Let Satan lead thee hence to some bottomless hole in the ground and case thee in!' If an inscription be required for after ages let it read: 'Here lies a monster who will monster no more'—with Ben Johnson's couplet over the grave of a deceased pig—

Whilst he lived he lived in clover;
When he died he died all over."

H.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Frederick Layton, 100 years old, ended his life yesterday in Philadelphia by hanging in his home. The centenarian used a rope made from a bed sheet. He was said to have been despondent lately.

"The kaiser ought not to be sent to St. Helena. That would be too dignified. And he should not be executed, for that would make a martyr of him. He should be escorted around the world on a trip of exhibition so that people might see the man responsible for so much misery." Former Ambassador James W. Gerard gave this as his solution of the question, "What shall we do with the Kaiser?" at the Brooklyn Academy of Music yesterday afternoon.

Election riots in many German cities are reported in a dispatch from Copenhagen. In Leipzig a mob destroyed an election bureau and the democratic party confiscated the evening editions of the newspapers. A general strike has been declared in Leipsic and the gas and water power has been turned off by the rebels, the dispatch says. Similar conditions are said to prevail at Dusseldorff.

Spartacus, from whom the German Spartacans, take their name, was a powerful man and was trained for a gladiator, but he objected to torture for the amusement of the free Romans and led a revolt of slaves which resulted in the gathering of an army of 30,000 about him and a resistance to organized authority which lasted several years. He and his bands defeated one Roman army after another and ravaged Europe from the Alps to the Adriatic before he was finally defeated and slain.

Pressure must be brought by every organization, every group and class of citizens and every great institution to force the three great food industries of the United States to disgorge their swollen profits taken from the people during the stress of war, declared Senator Borah, of Idaho. Senator Borah has been conducting a private inquiry into the activities of the grocery brokers, the meat packers and the sugar combinaton for more than a month. He has collected many startling facts and plans to place them before the country in an effort to show that drastic legislation must come soon, if huge post-war taxation is to be avoided.

If reports of the murder of American citizens in the Tampico oil fields are true, some action must be taken by this country to bring the Mexican government to book, declared Representative Stephen G. Porter, of Pennsylvania, yesterday. Representative Porter is ranking minority member of the House Committee on Foreign Relations and will be chairman in the next Congress. Congressional interest in the Mexican situation has been intensified by news that has come to Senators and Representative that a considerable number of employes in the Tampico oil fields, which are controlled by American and British companies, have been murdered during the past year, some half dozen of them American citizens.

CONSTANTINOPLE'S FUTURE

U. S. Should Rule Turk Capital, Says Briton.

London, Jan. 20.The administration of the affairs of Constantinople, if that city is to be internationalized, should be carried out by the United States or Greece, it was declared in an interview given by Dr. Donald Burrows, principal of Kings College, London, and acting chairman of the Anglo-Hellenic League. Dr. Burrows said:

"If Constantinople is to be internationalized as it is generally supposed it will be by the Peace Conference, only one country should be deputized to carry out the administrative affairs of that city and of Turkey in Europe.

"This work should be given to the United States for choice, or if not, then to Greece. Whichever nation is selected should work under the aegis of a future league of nations.

"BIG FIVE" WILL RULE

Germany and Austria Frozen out of Conference

Paris, Jan. 20.—The "Big Five"—America, Britain, France, Italy and Japan—will be the dominating power at the Peace Conference. They will take part in all meetings and commissions.

The other powers actively engaged in the war against the central powers will attend sittings at which questions concerning them are discussed. Among these nations are Belgium, Brazil, China, Greece, Poland, Portugal, Rumania, Serbia and the Czecho-Slovaks.

Powers which broke off diplomatic relations with the central powers will attend sittings at which questions concerning them are discussed

Neutral powers and nations in the process of formation will be heard only on questions directly concerning them.

Russia's status will be decided upon as soon as "matters concerning Russia" are examined.

These decisions of the Peace Conference were officially announced today.

Germany and Austria are not mentioned in the communique. It is presumed they are included under the head of "States now in the process of formation."

EPILEPSY KILLS PRINCE

King George's Youngest Son, Ill for Some Time, Dies in Sleep

London, Jan. 20.—Prince John, the youngest son of King George, died at Sandringham Saturday night. He had been ill for some time.

The prince was possessed of exuberant spirits. He was the prime favorite of all classes and the idol of the servants and tenants at Windsor It is said that he was the favorite brother of Princess Mary, who loved to romp with him. The prince was born at Sandringham July 12, 1905.

An official bulletin, issued this evening says:

"Prince John, who since infancy had suffered epileptic fits, which lately had become more frequent and severe, passed away in his sleep following an attack at 5:30 p. m. Saturday."

TO BEAT BACK POLES

Two German Forces Hasten to Repel Invaders from North

Copenhagen, Jan. 20.—The German government is reported organizing two armies against the Polish invasion. Some dispatches hint this is merely a pretext to cover up Germany's intention to resist the stringent peace terms which she will be expected to sign.

The West Prussian army is to be commanded by Gen. von Quast, a veteran general of the West front fighting, and the Silesian army by Gen. von Weyrsch, who took part in the Eastern campaigns.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg remains chief of staff, with headquarters in Berlin.

DIE ON WAY TO HOMES

Prisoners at Hun Camps Complain of Ill Treatment

London, Jan. 20.—Many British soldiers homeward bound from German prison camps are frightfully emaciated from the bad treatment they have received and will never see their homes, according to a dispatch received from Copenhagen.

Nineteen were buried yesterday in Danish graves.

An official item from Budapest, via Amsterdam, states that the Hungarian losses up to July last included 24,000 officer and 815,000 men of other ranks killed, and 41,000 officers and 1,900,000 men of other ranks wounded. There were 32,000 officers, but only 150,000 of other ranks missing or prisoners. Comment was provoked by the comparatively small number of troops missing or made prisoners as compared with the officers.

VIRGINIA NEWS

A verdict for $16,000 damages was rendered by the jury in the Circuit Court of Wythe county Saturday afternoon in the case of Mrs. Esther C. Myers against J. W. Myers and wife, her parents in law, for the alienation of the affections of her husband, Shalia M. Myers.

James P. Woods, of Roanoke, was nominated for Congress from the Sixth Virginia district in a special Democratic primary Saturday to succeed Carter Glass, recently appointed Secretary of the Treasury. Returns from 82 of the 116 precincts, including the cities of Lynchburg and Roanoke, gave Woods 2,311 vote, and J. Thompson Brown, his leading opponent, 1,200. The district is overwhelmingly Democratic.

Five white men, all residents of Lynchburg, seven handbags and suitcases containing 76 quarts of liquor and a seven-passenger automobile fell into the hands of the police at Lynchburg Saturday as the car was driven across the James river bridge into the city. The liquor is said to have been brought to Monroe on a Southern train by Barney Switzer, Raymond Turner, Michael Kegney and Peter Candler, who summoned J. Monroe Wilson to meet them at Monroe. The five men were arrested on the charge of transporting the liquor from one point in the State to another, the additional charge of second offense being placed against Turner, who was convicted under the prohibition laws 18 months ago at Hopewell.
